Term of office	Ongoing
Business / work	Head Teacher at St John's
Governance experience
Hobbies and interests	On a personal level, I'm married with two adult sons. In what little spare time I seem to have I love going on holiday (somewhere sunny), to music festivals or gigs so I can pretend to be young again, or just walking on the beach with my dogs, Wilf and Ernie.
Links to the school/area	I've loved being a part of the school's transformation into the great one it is today, but there are always more ways we can improve. Creating The Turf is one of the things I am most proud of, because it helped truly embed us as the hub of our community.
Why did you become a governor?	I've been a member of the governing body for about 20 years, for the last 14 as Head of the school. I've always enjoyed the strategic aspect of being a governor, looking for innovative ways to improve our school. Our governors are a group of people all with different skills and different opinions, but with the same shared vision for St John's. The term 'critical friend' describes our governors perfectly – they're the first to praise the school for its successes but can be firm when there are improvements to be made! What's great about the governors is that whilst we don't always agree on everything, we are all motivated to provide the best education possible for our children.
