

Our PSHE Curriculum

Our vision

At St John's our intention is that our Personal, Social, and Health Education (PSHE) curriculum enables our children to become healthy, independent and responsible members of society. It aims to help them understand how they are developing personally and socially, and tackles many of the moral, social and cultural issues that are part of growing up.

Intent

Our intent is to deliver the curriculum in such a way that our children are able to form a sense of who they are as individuals and as members of families and communities. Through a carefully planned programme, supported by all who work in or with the school, we want children to leave ready for the transition into secondary school and adult life.

At St John's, we build children's knowledge and understanding of PSHE around three key concepts;

- Relationships
- Health and Wellbeing
- Living in the Wider World

Implementation

At St John's we deliver our PSHE curriculum through weekly timetabled lessons, using a structured programme with pre-planned units. Children are also encouraged to take part in a wide range of activities and experiences across and beyond the curriculum, contributing fully to the life of their school and communities.

Our developed curriculum and method of delivery enables children to learn and progress in PSHE in four ways:

1. Through refining our core knowledge, children will be able to know and remember more of their taught PSHE through understanding more.
2. Children are able to use the tools and techniques of learning within PSHE then develop the skills to apply them to everyday, real-life situations.
3. Through the three concepts listed above, children are able to build on their understanding across their time at St John's.
4. Through the acquisition of appropriate language and vocabulary.
